DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-25 are pending and have been examined.

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on 07 April 2004 has been considered by the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

3. Claims 17-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The claims recite a "computerized system" which under reasonable interpretation may simply be software per se. The system does not include hardware.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

5. Claims 1-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Notani et al. (USPN 6,567,783 B1).

Claim 1

Notani disclosed a computerized method for collaborating over a network to manipulate a design using a plurality of heterogeneous user applications running on respective clients connected to the network (column 1, lines 50-55), said method comprising the steps of:

connecting a session client process to a session manager over the network to participate in a collaborative session (figure 14, column 15, lines 17-33);

sharing session control messages with other session client processes connected to said session manager (figure 14, column 15, lines 17-33);

loading design data representing said design into a local application running on said client (figure 14, column 15, lines 17-33);

creating at least one application state file representing at least one application state of said local application based on at least one manipulation of said design using said local application (figure 14, column 15, lines 17-33);

communicating said at least one application state file from said session client process to said other session client processes via said session manager (figure 14, column 15, lines 17-33); and loading at least one application state file created by other local applications and communicated from said other session clients via said session manager (figure 14, column 15, lines 17-33).

Claim 2

Notani disclosed the method of claim 1 wherein said at least one application state is encoded using normalized XML structures to create said at least one application state file, and wherein said at least one application state file is communicated as an XML message (column 3, line 55; and column 7, lines 47-49).

Claim 3

Notani disclosed the method of claim 2 wherein said XML structures are based on domain specific conventions defined in the context of the type of design data (column 3, lines 44-45).

Claim 4

Notani disclosed the method of claim 1 further comprising saving said session controls and said at least one application state file in a journal file (column 14, lines 39-42; figure 14).

Claim 5

Notani disclosed the method of claim 1 further comprising the step of scheduling said collaborative session (column 14, lines 39-42).

Claim 6

Notani disclosed the method of claim 1 further comprising the step of conducting a text-based conversation with said other session clients (column 14, lines 39-42).

Claim 7

Notani disclosed the method of claim 1 further comprising the steps of logging in to said collaborative session and logging out of said collaborative session (column 14, lines 39-42).

Claim 8

Notani disclosed the method of claim 1 further comprising the step of controlling the loading of said application state file at a time selected by the user (column 14, lines 39-42).

Claim 9

Notani disclosed the method of claim 1 further comprising the step of displaying design manipulations corresponding to said application state file created and communicated by said other application files (figures 10 and 11).

Claim 10

Notani disclosed the method of claim 1 wherein said design is manipulated without having to transmit design images between said heterogeneous applications (column 3, line 55, using these standards).

Claim 12

Notani disclosed the computerized method of claim 11 wherein said method is an asynchronous method of collaboration (column 6, line 22).

Claim 13

Notani disclosed the computerized method of claim 11 wherein said journal file provides interactive instructions when played back on said another computer (figure 14).

Claim 15

Notani disclosed the computerized method of claim 14 wherein the step of manipulating said design includes highlighting said design object, and wherein said other of said applications highlights said corresponding design object upon reading said application state file (column 11, lines 62-65).

Claim 16

Notani disclosed the computerized method of claim 14 wherein said heterogeneous applications collaborate bi-directionally (figure 14, element 212).

Claims 11, 14 and 17-25

Claims 11, 14 and 17-25 correspond to claims 1-10 and are rejected in a corresponding manner.
